BREAKPOINTS VERIFIED

Executive summary

- Accessibility has real gaps. 8 WCAG 2.2 AA violations, 2 of them critical: images without alt text and pinch-to-zoom disabled on mobile.
- Pricing content is hard to read. Low-contrast text on 14 elements, including price figures and CTA buttons.
- Main content is slow to appear. Largest Contentful Paint measured 4.8s against Google's 2.5s "good" threshold (measured in a throttled headless browser — directionally useful, worth confirming with field data).
- The site's own security policy is blocking its marketing stack. The page's Content-Security-Policy refuses to load: Adpxl (ad verification), Bing UET conversion tracking, Candor signals, Google Ads, HubSpot (chat/forms), LinkedIn conversion attribution, Marketo Munchkin (marketing automation), Microsoft Clarity (session replay). If this holds in normal browsers, analytics and conversion attribution are silently under-counting — worth a quick check with the marketing team.
- Email validation needs a manual submit test. Clearly-invalid emails are accepted without any visible error flag. The agent deliberately never submits real lead-gen forms, so submission-time validation couldn't be observed.
- AI answer engines describe your product in ways your own page doesn't back up. 2 mismatch(es) found when asking gemini buyer questions and diffing against the page content — see the GEO/AEO findings below. Worth noting which claim is right: the engine's or the page's.
- Rendering itself is healthy. Visual layout passed the vision-model rubric at mobile, tablet and desktop widths.

Confirmed issues

CRITICAL

Images missing alt text

SCOPE

4 element(s) on the tested page

WHY IT MATTERS

Screen-reader users hear nothing for these images — including the main logo and customer logos (Nobel, Hyundai). Alt text is also how images surface in search.

RECOMMENDED FIX

Add descriptive alt attributes (e.g. alt="Xoxoday Plum" on the logo); use alt="" for purely decorative images.

CRITICAL

Pinch-to-zoom disabled on mobile

SCOPE

1 element(s) on the tested page

WHY IT MATTERS

The page's viewport tag disables zooming, so users with low vision cannot magnify content. This is a direct WCAG 2.2 AA failure (1.4.4 Resize Text) and a common source of mobile complaints.

RECOMMENDED FIX

Remove user-scalable=no / maximum-scale from the viewport meta tag.

HIGH AI answer engine inconsistent with your page — geminiDETAIL

Q: What countries can Xoxoday deliver rewards to?

gemini claim: Xoxoday (now part of the Gift group and often branded as Xoxoday Plum) can deliver rewards to over 100+ countries globally (with some catalog expansions covering up to 150+ countries).

Their rewards catalog supports 80+ currencies and offers localized options so recipients receive re

Mismatch: The claim states that Xoxoday delivers rewards to over 100+ countries (up to 150+) and offers over 30,000+ brand gift cards, whereas the ground truth specifies an international catalog across 80+ countries and 1,500+ brand gift cards.

HOW TO READ THIS

A live buyer question was posed to gemini and its answer was diffed against this page's own content. A mismatch means the page does not substantiate the claim — either the page is underselling the product (add the content) or the engine is wrong (publish clearer structured data so engines get it right).

HIGH AI answer engine inconsistent with your page — geminiDETAIL

Q: Does Xoxoday have an AI assistant or AI-personalized recommendations?

gemini claim: Yes, Xoxoday incorporates AI assistants and AI-driven personalization across its primary product suite (Empuls, Plum, and Compass).

Here is how Xoxoday utilizes AI for assistants and personalized recommendations:

1. Generative AI Writing Assistant (in Empuls)

Xoxoday Em

Mismatch: The claim asserts that Xoxoday incorporates Generative AI writing assistants, AI-personalized reward recommendations, NLP sentiment analysis, smart nudge engines, and predictive ML algorithms across Empuls, Plum, and Compass. However, the ground truth only lists basic features such as 'Personalization and customization' and 'Reports and Analytics' for Plum, with no mention or verification of AI capabilities, AI assistants, or generative AI.

HOW TO READ THIS

A live buyer question was posed to gemini and its answer was diffed against this page's own content. A mismatch means the page does not substantiate the claim — either the page is underselling the product (add the content) or the engine is wrong (publish clearer structured data so engines get it right).

HIGH Deprecated element presentSCOPE

1 element(s) on the tested page

WHY IT MATTERS

A tag — obsolete since the 1990s — is still in the DOM (verified: a hidden "New" badge in the left-column nav, suppressed with visibility:hidden rather than removed). It is invisible to users today, but it flags the page as unmaintained to anyone inspecting it and should simply be deleted.

RECOMMENDED FIX

Delete the element (keep the inner ^{New} badge if it's still wanted).

HIGH Low-contrast text

SCOPE

14 element(s) on the tested page

WHY IT MATTERS

Text is too faint against its background for many readers to comfortably read — including pricing figures and primary buttons, i.e. exactly the content a buying decision depends on.

RECOMMENDED FIX

Darken text/background pairs to meet the 4.5:1 ratio (3:1 for large text). The affected selectors are listed in the appendix.

HIGH Links distinguishable by color only

SCOPE

1 element(s) on the tested page

WHY IT MATTERS

A link inside body text is identified only by its color, which fails WCAG 1.4.1 and is invisible to color-blind users.

RECOMMENDED FIX

Add an underline or non-color cue to in-text links.

HIGH Link with no discernible text

SCOPE

1 element(s) on the tested page

WHY IT MATTERS

The navbar brand link has no accessible name — screen-reader users hear it announced as just "link".

RECOMMENDED FIX

Give the logo link an aria-label ("Xoxoday home").

Embedded elements missing alt text

SCOPE

6 element(s) on the tested page

WHY IT MATTERS

Six embedded objects (feature illustrations) have no text alternative, so their content is invisible to assistive technology.

RECOMMENDED FIX

Add accessible names via aria-label or an inner fallback element.

MEDIUM [mobile] layout issue

DETAIL

Cookie banner floats in the center of the viewport, obscuring section content.

SOURCE

Flagged by the vision-model judge on the full-page mobile screenshot. Visual observations like these are worth a quick manual look before filing.

MEDIUM [tablet] layout issue

Support and Redeem header links are positioned awkwardly above the main navigation bar.

SOURCE

Flagged by the vision-model judge on the full-page tablet screenshot. Visual observations like these are worth a quick manual look before filing.

MEDIUM LCP exceeds 'good' threshold

DETAIL

LCP = 4769.125999999999 (threshold: 2500)

LOW [mobile] other issue

DETAIL

Stray arrow symbol rendered underneath the newsletter subscription input field.

SOURCE

Flagged by the vision-model judge on the full-page mobile screenshot. Visual observations like these are worth a quick manual look before filing.

Needs manual verification

MEDIUM Email fields accept invalid input without an error flag

WHAT WE SAW

Entering "not-an-email" left the field with no aria-invalid state and no visible error message.

WHY IT'S NOT CONFIRMED

The agent never submits real lead-gen forms (safety policy), and some forms validate only at submission time.

NEXT STEP

Manually submit the form once with an invalid email; if it reaches the CRM, add client-side validation.

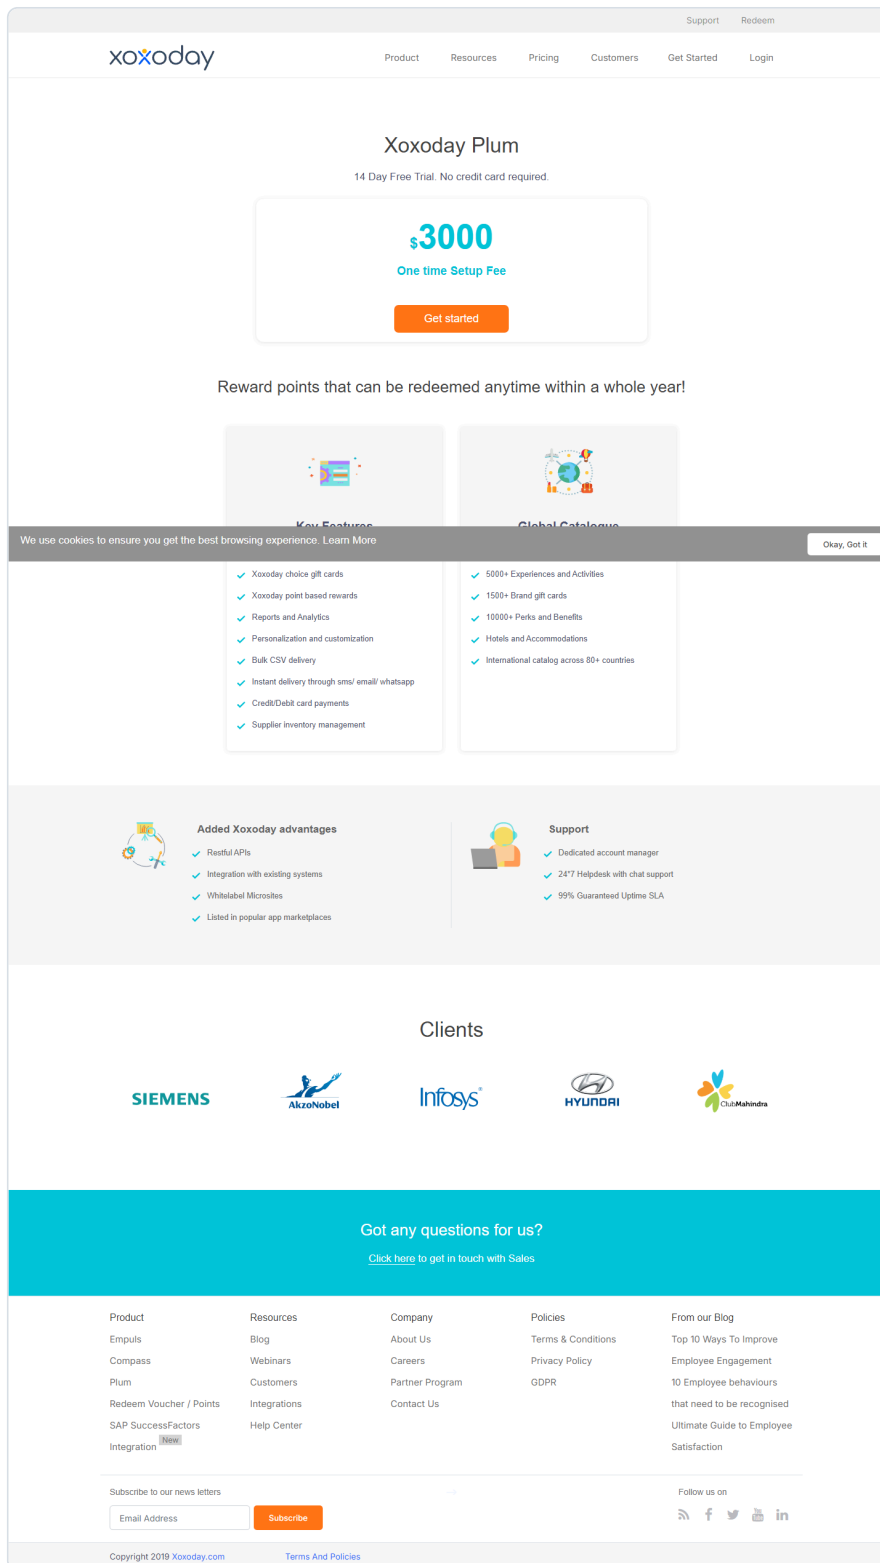

Silent-failure monitor: blocked marketing scripts

The monitor attached to every page load caught the site's own Content-Security-Policy refusing requests from these third-party services. This does not break the page for visitors — but if these tags are supposed to be firing, analytics dashboards and conversion attribution are quietly losing data. Recommend confirming each vendor below is either allow-listed in the CSP or intentionally retired.

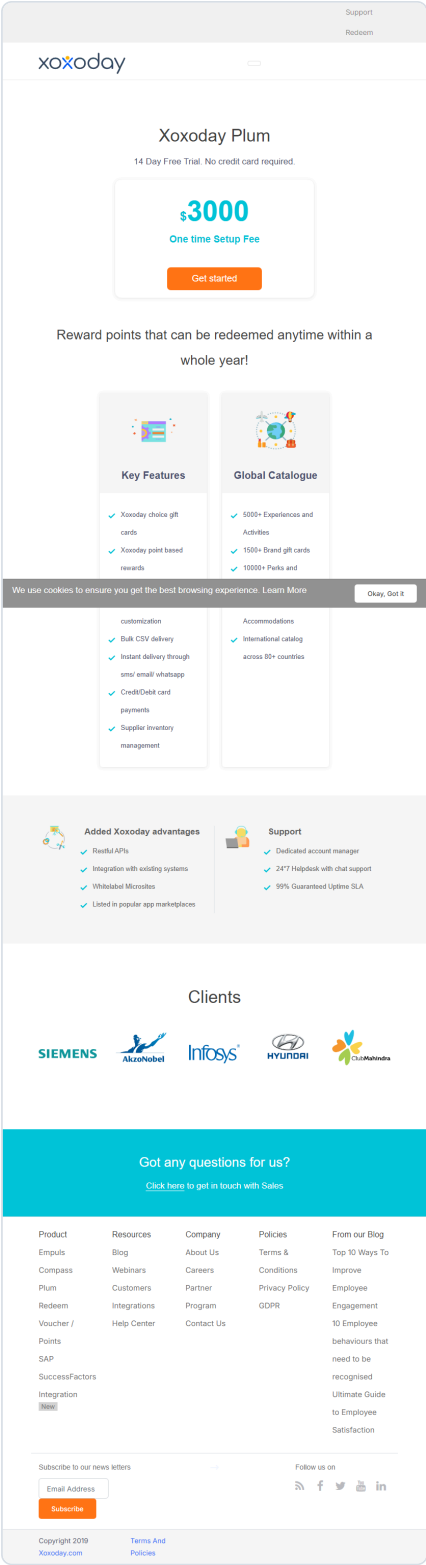

Service	Blocked endpoint(s)
Adpxl (ad verification)	adpxl.co
Bing UET conversion tracking	bat.bing.com
Candor signals	cr-relay.com
Google Ads	googleadservices.com
HubSpot (chat/forms)	hs-scripts.com
LinkedIn conversion attribution	px.ads.linkedin.com
Marketo Munchkin (marketing automation)	mczbf.com
Microsoft Clarity (session replay)	clarity.ms

Visual evidence

Full-page captures taken by the scan at three viewport widths. These are the exact inputs the vision-model judge evaluated.

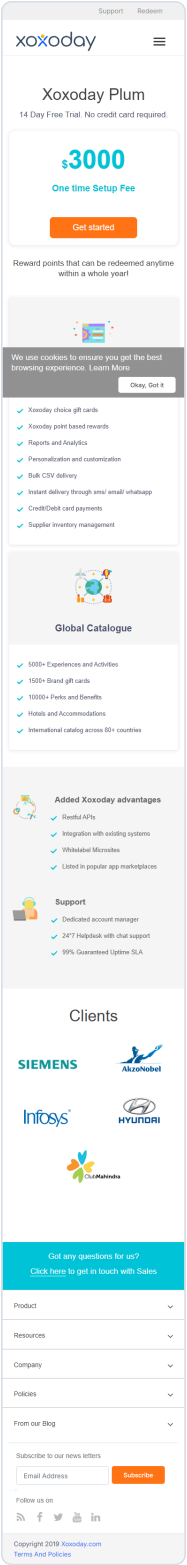

Desktop (1440px) — full-page capture during the scan

Tablet (834px) — full-page capture during the scan

HIGH

Mobile (390px) — full-page capture during the scan

How this was produced

An automated QA agent loaded the page in a real (headless) Chromium browser and ran four specialist checks:

- Visual QA — screenshots at mobile/tablet/desktop judged by a vision model against a bounded rubric (layout breaks, text overflow, brand inconsistency).
- Forms — boundary and internationalized inputs, reading validation state. No form was ever submitted.
- GEO/AEO — structured-data and meta-tag consistency vs. rendered content.
- A11y + performance + silent failures — axe-core WCAG 2.2 AA audit, Lighthouse Core Web Vitals, and a console/network monitor.

Safety: the scan respected robots.txt, rate-limited itself to roughly one request every 1.5 seconds, identified itself with a contactable User-Agent string, tagged all test data, and never completed a real form submission.

Limitations

- axe-core automates roughly 30–40% of WCAG 2.2 AA; a clean automated pass is not a full accessibility audit.
- Performance was measured in a throttled headless browser; absolute numbers will differ from real-user field data.
- Findings reflect a single point in time; the pipeline is designed to be rerun nightly.
- CSP-blocked endpoints were observed under the scan's environment; confirm in a normal browser session before treating each as a live data-loss issue.
